

DAVID ROEDER

ECOFIN ADVISORS LLC
DIRECTOR OF SUSTAINABLE
PROJECT FINANCE

David Roeder is the Director of Sustainable Project Finance for Ecofin Advisors LLC (“Ecofin”), which is part of the Tortoise-Ecofin family of investment management companies. Ecofin is a sustainable investment firm dedicated to uniting ecology and finance, with a mission to generate strong risk-adjusted returns while optimizing investor’s impact on society. Ecofin is a socially-minded, ESG-attentive investor, harnessing years of expertise investing in sustainable infrastructure, energy transition, waste transition, clean water, and social impact. Ecofin’s investment solutions seek to achieve positive impacts that align with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals by addressing global issues surrounding climate action, clean energy, water, education, healthcare, and sustainable communities. Ecofin’s strategies are accessible through a variety of investment solutions.

As the Director of Sustainable Project Finance for Ecofin, David is responsible for identifying and originating investments in the Waste Transition sector, including waste-to-energy and waste-to-value projects. Each project diverts a waste stream from landfill introduction or other environmentally-harmful disposition, and converts the waste into beneficial new products that promote de-carbonization and circular economy efforts.

David has 30 years of experience in the originating, underwriting, documenting, and syndicating of tax-exempt and taxable financings for U.S. public sector clients, and has been responsible for the origination of more than $4 billion in public sector fundings.

David currently serves as Board Chair of the Association for Governmental Leasing and Finance. He previously served as a Board Member of the Kishwaukee Symphony Orchestra in DeKalb, Illinois, where he was responsible for grants and corporate sponsorships. He previously served on the Financial Advisory Committee of Consolidated School District No. 158 of Huntley, Illinois, and as an Adjunct Faculty member of DePaul University's Finance Department, teaching Portfolio Investment Management for undergraduate students. David received a BBA in Banking and Finance from Mississippi State University, and an MBA in Finance from DePaul University.